HOMICIDE IN COLERAIN TOWNSHIP-A Man Homicide in Colerain Township—A Man Beaten to Death by a Comrade,—Homicides are like wees, inasmuch as one treads upon another's heels. A citizen is stabbed to the heart in a public thoroughfare; another is shot dead in the house of an acquaintance; a third receives a stilletto at midnight, and a forth is beaten to death with a stick of wood, and all these follow each other so closely that the community has not ceased to use one as a topic of conversation before to use one as a topic of conversation before to use one as a topic of conversation before another has been related.

Last Sunday night Colerain Township was the scene of a homicide which is as mysterious as those to which we have alluded. A party of men visited a neighbor, and, while there, by the excessive use of liquor, became intoxicated. They seemed in the best possible mood, and, after enjoying themselves in their peculiar way for some time, started home.

On the way back, one of them probably somewhat more intoxicated than the rest named Charles Rochlef, fell behind his com panions, when one of them, named Michael Fisher, apparently without motive, went back, took a stick of wood, and, after beating him to death, returned and told the other members of the party that he had "fixed him."

Next morning Roehlef was found in the path, cold, stiff and bloody, with fixed eyes and ghastly face, a victim to the autocratic democrat who furnishes homes for all alike, and, with skeleton hand, forces Torgias and Diogenes, Phidias and Alcibiades, Penelope and Helen, into the same eternal bed.

and Helen, into the same eternal bed.

Fisher was arrested and taken before Justice Marsh, of Colerain, who, after an examination, committed him to Jail to await trial at the next term of the Court of Common Pleas, upon a charge of murder in the first degree. The homicide is mute in regard to the affair, and simply says that he was drunk, and knew not what he was doing. The mystery seems more impenderable, and may probably never be fathromed.

The Recent Case of Woman-whilpping to Hammond-street Station-house-Exam-institut of Lient. Small

Our readers will probably remember a paragraph which appeared in the Pansa, in common with one or two other morning papers, stating that Lieut. Small had cownided a woman, named Johanna Civelli, in the Hammond-street Station-house, on the night of the Guelich homicide. An examination into the circumstances connected with the affair took place before Mayor Bishop yesterday morning.

Anair took place before Mayor Bishop yes-terday morning.

A number of witnesses were examined, among whom was the writer of this article. We were within a few feet of the officer at the time, and saw Lieut. Small first strike the woman across the skirts with a whip or cowhide, and then catch her by the arm, pull her forward and strike her four or five times across the shoulders with the same weapon. The woman half-insaie from selfweapon. The woman, half-insane from selfweapon. The woman, half-insane from self-abuse and exposure, was making considerable noisa, although we do not know a single word she said, and supposed that those who were present paid as little attention to her ravings as we did.

Mr. Whilden of the Commercial, stated that he entered the Cell-room at the station-house about the time the first blow was given and thought it was not possible, judging from the position of the woman, for the

He also expressed an opinion to the woman, for the Lieutenant to strike her across the shoulders. He also expressed an opinion to the effect that he thought Mr. Small took the best method of silencing the woman's verbal abuse of the officers.

Dr. J. C. Beck testified that he thought the laws of the laws contains the laws of the laws contains the laws.

the bars of the iron cage in which the woman was confined received the blows rather than was confined received the blows rather than her back, and stated that when he saw Lieutenant Small approach her with the whip he felt as if the officer was about to do his duty. A woman was in the station-house, at the time, with a couple of children as lodgers, and the obscenity they were compelled to hear, ought to have been silenced for their sakes, no matter what means were used.

sakes, no matter what means were used. In regard to the injuries the woman received at the hands of the officer, the following evidence was heard: Dr. Sexton, physician at the City Prison, found a bruise on her shoulder that might have been made with a cowhide or a blow of any sort, while Mr. Lindsay, turnkey at the station-house, stated that she fell from the beach in her cell and struck her shoulder against a tub.

A number of persons were called upon to testify in regard to the character of the accused, and they seemed to agree that she was the most obscene, while under the influence of liquor, that had ever been incar-was the most obscene, while under the influence of liquor, that had ever been incarcerated in the City Prison.

Mayor Bishop said the use of the whip was reprehensible, but regarded the conduct of the woman as a palliating circumstance. It was very wrong for any officer to abuse his prisoner, but there were circumstances which, although they might not fully excuse, tended to mitigate the offense. He would take the matter under advisement, and give his decision this morning. cision this morning.

BOARD OF CITY IMPROVEMENTS .- At the regular semi-weekly session of the Board of City Improvements resterday morning the following communication was read:

"To the Honorable Board of City Commit "Sins—In bidding for your street-cleaning contracts, I did so in good faith, and pre-sented supposed friends of mine of twenty years standing. They were induced to go on my bond understandingly, but have since

CRINOLINE TRIUMPHANT .- The Law Pavors Its Extension .- A Philadelphia correspondent of the New York Tribune gives the following:

One of our Aldermen, by name Helfricht has a wife who, like all other wives, indulger in crinoline. In passing up Third-street, the other day, her skirt encountered a box on the pavement in front of Mr. Wm. M. Christy's store, whereupon the box caught the skirt, the same being of silk, and therethe skirt, the same being of silk, and therein tore a hole five and a half inches long.
The lady, discovering the rent, proceeded to kick—not Mr. Christy, but the box—and her husband, the Alderman, proceeded to sue the unoffending Mr. Christy, claiming as damages $25. The lady proved that she kicked the box. Christy defended the box and himself—proved that it stood within twenty-two inches of the curb, which space the law gives him, and that it had been there only an hour and a quarter. The Alderman, who heard this momentous case on Tuesday, was an bothered by it as to be on Tuesday, was so bothered by it as to be unable to make his mind up until Saturday. He then gave judgment in favor of the plaintiff for $5 and costs, thus legally deciding that every thing out of doors must stand clear of hooped-skirts.

A SERIES OF SEVERE WINTERS PREDICTED. A French meteorologist, named Renou, pre-dicts a series of severe winters, of which the approaching winter is to be the first, and that of 1871 the most severe. Mr. Renou thinks he has discovered that these groups of severe winters return in forty-one years, and that the increase of spots on the sun in-dicates them. He also finds that unusual displays of aurors borealis and frequent earthquakes are simultaneous with the increase of spots on the sun and severe winters.

Volunteers for Garmaldi—Victor Hugo Among the Number.—Gentlemen of the European extreme gauche are understood to be flocking to the camp of Garibaldi. Victor Hugo is of the number, and he is the bitterest writer against Napoleon III in the world; and upon that Emperor's will depends the fate of Italy. It would be the part of wisdom in Garibaldi to give these well-meaning but imprudent gentlemen free passes out of Italy. Italy.

RECEIPTS OF THE PARIS TREATERS.-The month of August is considered the worst in the year, but the August of 1860 certainly deserves the grateful recollection of Parisian managers. The receipts of the various thea-ters during that month reached the enormous sum of 1,115,130 francs, or upward of $223,000.

AN EXTENDED BUSINESS ON A SMALL CAPITAL.—The accounts of Smith, Sinclair & Co., an English firm recently failed, show that they commenced business in 1856, with a capital of only £1,200. In 1856 their transactions amounted to £457,506, and during the present year to £329,686. the present year to £329,686.

A little child in Albany, N. Y., swallowed one of the large copper cents, a day or two ago, but prompt medical aid relieved her.

There has been no summer in Paris this year, the thermometer at no time rising above 65°.

Extraordinary Tonnelty of Persons Deter Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, in his famous paper on Physicians, tells the following stories of persons who wouldn't die when they "were expected to." He says:

they "were expected to." He says:

I have doomed people, and seen others doom them over and over again, on the strength of physical aigns, and they have lived in the most contumacious and scientifically unjustifiable manner as long as they lived, and are living still. I see two men in the street very often, who were both as good as dead in the opinion of all who saw them in the extremity. People will insist on living sometimes, though manifestly moribund. In Elder's Life of Dr. Kone you will find a story of this sort, told by Dr. Kane himself. The captain of a ship was dying with scurvy, but the crew mutinled, and he gave up dying for the present to take care of them.

An old lady in this city, near her end, got a little vexed about a proposed change in her will, ordered a coach, was driven twenty miles to the house of a relative, and lived four years longer.

four years longer.

Cotton Mather tells some good stories which he picked up in his experience, or out of his books, showing the unstable equilibrium of prognosis. Simon Stone was shot in nine places, and as he lay for dead the Indians made two backs with a hatchet to cut his head off. He got well, however, and was a lusty fellow in Cotton Mather's time.

Jabes Musgrave was shot with a bullet Jabez Musgrave was shot with a bullet that went in his car and came out of an eye on the other side. A couple of bullets went through his body, also. Jabez got well, however, and lived many years. Per contra Col. Rossiter, cracking a plum-stone with his teeth, broke his tooth, and lost his life. We have seen physicians dying, like Spigelius, from a scratch; and a man who had a crowbar shot through his head is alive and well.

These extreme cases are warnings.

Capt. Daniel Greene, an old sea-captain, who died in Marietta, a year or two since, had a sear about the size of a ten-cent piece, plainly to be seen, on each side of his face, caused by a bullet shot through his head, a little front of his ears, many years before his death, as we have heard, in an engagement of his vessel with pirates. The writer hereof once knew a girl to slide from hay in the upper part of a stable upon a cart-stake, the upper part of a stable upon a cart-stake, which was sharp at the top, and which entered the lower part of her body and passed out between two of her ribs; her father took the stake out of the cart with his little daughter thus plerced through by it, laid her on the stable-floor, and pulled the stake out of her body. That same little girl is yet living, and now a married woman.

Remarkable Trance-Striking Instances of Life in Death.

of Life in Death.

Many instances are on record, in which, but for the presence of an experienced medical man, persons affected with catalepsy, hysteria, and various obscure nervous derangements, would have been consigned to one of the most dreadful forms of death, by being entombed alive. Dr. Gouch gives an an interesting example of this in one of his female patients. Being summoned in haste to her bedside, a remarkable change in her supect was apparent. The attendants were aspect was apparent. The attendants were greatly alarmed, and said she was dying, or in a trance. She lay motionless, and appar-ently devoid of animation. Her eyes were ently devoid of animation. Her eyes were fixed and glassy. No heaving of the chest, no movement of the air-passages, indicated respiration. The only signs of life were her warmth and her pulse—the latter being very weak.

The body being raised so as to form an obtuse angle with the limbs, her thin and pallid frame looked like a corpse which had been propped up, and had stiffened in that attitude. One arm was raised by the attendattitude. One arm was raised by the attendants, and then the other, each remaining rigid and marble-like where it was fixed. She was placed upright, and vain endeavors were made to arouse her by calling loudly in her cars. As she stood, statue-like and unconscious, with eyes wide open and arms outstretched, the slightest touch put her off her balance. She would have fallen had she not been supported. This strange "life in not been supported. This strange "life in death" defied all treatment and lasted for fourteen hours. Other attacks followed, of twolve and nine hours' duration, after which she recovered by the use of suitable restora-tives. Such attacks are often of much longer tives. Such attacks are often of much longer duration, and if deprived of the aid and protection of medical science, this woman would probably have been in a short time invested in her shroud, and would have added one additional victim to that popular ignorance and indecorous haste which have so often, especially in torrid climates, and in times of pestilence, mistaken the temporary suspension of organic functions, for man's last dread enemy, death. enemy, death.

Vicissitudes of Fortune as Good as a Play. A young printer, of Springfield, Mass., fell in love with a beautiful girl, who had the misfortune to be rich. He essayed to attract ber attention, but in vain. Despairing, he started for California—that land of refuge for broken fortunes and wounded hearts. This was in the year 1859, when San Francisco was a village, and wanted printers more than at present. The boy quickly became a man there; and, embarking in the printing business, soon found himself the proprietor of an establishment from which sprang, in due time a weekly paper, ere long to be was in the year 1859, when San Francisco of an establishment from which sprang, in due time, a weekly paper, ere long to be followed by a daily. His journal and his fortunes flourished amazingly, and he returned to New York in 1854, with the avowed purpose of buying a six-cylinder press, but with the unavowed purpose of locking up a lovely form in his now golden chases.

Alas for human hopes! The maiden was wedded and the mother of two children. The printer bought his presses and returned to California—a sadder, not a wiser man. Years progressed, and he prospered. One day a lady visited his editorial-room, to lay her modest contribution on his table, in hopes of getting some remuneration for it. Her story was told briefly: her husband had hopes of getting some remuneration for it Her story was told briefly: her husband had come to mend his fortunes in the land of gold, and had died, and she was left very poor, with her two children to support. The editor looked at the lady a moment—and handed her a doubloon. The astonished woman essayed to utter thanks, but was wared. woman essayed to utter thanks, but was waved away. To shorten the story, the lady was his early love, and—he married her, sold out his establishment, returned to New York, and is now enjoying as much felicity on the banks of the Hudson as it fails to the lot of few printers even to conceive.

SICKESING PICTURE OF SIN .- A most heart rending scene was presented to an Albany (N. The Prince at New York. New York, October 12.—The Prince visited the New York University, this moraing, and received an address from Chancellor Ferris, and another from Professor Morse. He visited Astor Library, Cooper Institute, and Free Academy, where the scholars all rose on his entrance, and remained standing during his visit. during his visit:

during his visit.

After a drive to Central Park, he dined with Mayor Wood, and thence proceeded to High Bridge, returning in season for the ball to-night.

Soon after leaving the hotel this morning.

Soon after leaving the hotel this moraing, a young fellow named Edward Moncoue, who says he was born in England, and is evidently in a disordered state of mind, rushed out of the crowd on the sidewalk, shaking his fist and exclaiming: "Who are you? I can whip you any day. You will never be King of England if you live 100 years." years.

Some spectators also declare he threatened to shoot at the Prince, but others deny it. The Prince and suite paid no attention to the disturbance, and possibly did not hear the insulting language.

The Prince, by desire, planted two trees on the Central Park, one an English Oak and the other an American Elm.

PHILADRIPHIA, October 12.—The official count this morning shows the election of John M. Butler (Republican) for Congress in the First District, over Lehman, by 185 mathe First District, over Lethnan, sy-jority.

The trustees of the City Gas-works are manifesting opposition to the improvement in the manufacture of gas by cutting off the connections at the Girard House, and refus-ing the supply from the city works unless the proprietors stop making water-gas, with which the hotel has been partly supplied for menths past.

The vote of the First District has been thrown into Court for judicial examination. Mr. Lehman, the Democratic candidate, testi-fied that he had examined the returns of the Judges of several precincts in the Fourth Ward, which gave him a majority of 555; it was also testified that this was the majority counted on for Mr. Lehman, at the meeting of the Judges of the Fourth Ward, while the returns presented by Byerly, the return Judge from that ward at the Official Court this morning, only gave Mr. Lehman 229 majority, thus defeating him.

OMAHA, N. T., October 12.—The election returns come in slowly. The Democrats claim the election of Morton by 200 majority, and both branches of the Legislature as Democratic, while the Republicans claim a majority for Daily, and both branches of the Legislatures as Republican.

OMARA, October 12.—Twelve counties give Daily (Rep.) a majority of 137 over Morton (Dem.) The ten counties to hear from gave 388 Democratic majority last year. Morton's election is claimed by the Nebraskian. The The Council is likely to be Democratic.

LAMENTABLE EFFECTS OF A STRIKE IN EXGLAND.—A strike is generally much worse than work. A body of operatives at Colns, Lancashire, after holding out three months, and suffering dreadfully, have returned to their work. They formed an association, with an executive committee, and voluntarily submitted to a series of tyrannies worse than anything employers ever had the will or power to inflict. A periodical report of the inances of the association appeared, called Punch, one of the objects of which was to "punch" up delinquents of dues, and by which the members, especially famales, were grossly and publicly insulted and threatened, their numes being printed in full, with threats of scandaious revelations, if they were behindhand in their payments. Under this insupportable system about $4,000 per week were collected, until the poor creatures could endure the self-elected tyranny no longer. LAMENTABLE EFFECTS OF A STRIKE IN EX-
